

After sailing on trading vessels, Newport was hired to sail with Sir Francis Drake to capture Spanish ships and bring back precious treasures to England. Newport decided to become a privateer, just like Sir Francis.

The Spaniards called them pirates, but the English called themselves privateers. With the war going on between England and Spain, Queen Elizabeth was delighted when British sailors raided enemy ships and brought back riches to England.

